DISCUSS CAUCUS PLANS

Rep. Fulton Pushing Speakership Candidacy—Young
May Not Be Opposed
for Clerk.

Columbus, Dec. 13.—Governor-Elect James M. Cox arrived in Columbus at noon today from Dayton and shortly afterwards met all the state candidates elected with him on the Democratic ticket November 5, at luncheon at the Chittenden Hotel. The purpose of the conference was to thrash out a harmonious program of procedure for the redemption of the platform pledges and pre-election promises of the party and its candidates. It is the governor's hope that the administration present an united front on all measures.

Governor-elect Cox does not believe there will be any trouble in carrying out the caucus plans. He has been advised by letters that the progressive members of the legislature were with him.

That there would be no trouble was news to William Duane Fulton, the Newark candidate for speaker, who thought he had been piling up quite a heap of it. He telephoned to friends here yesterday that he had received a lot of letters, commending his course in challenging the governor-elect to be consistent with his record in opposing Cannonism at Washington by standing against the appointment of committees by the speaker of the Ohio house. He asked when Congressman Cox would be in Columbus, saying he would like to bring over a bushel or two of these letters to show him.

The report wired from Washington that Mr. Cox had been advised that "some of the interests involved in the revelations of graft during the last session of the legislature are attempting to take a hand in the organization of the new assembly," was hotly resented by Assistant Clerk Harry R. Young. He said:

"The misleading and subtle insinuation contained in the statement put out by some self-styled advisors of the incoming administration relative to legislative graft, in the hope to besmirch the character of every one who may have been connected with the present general assembly, is unwarranted and cowardly and is evidence that they are losing hope of their successful dictation of the organization of the house. I am making my fight for the house clerkship solely on my record and experience and without any attempt to belittle any other aspirant."

He received a letter yesterday from one of the Ohio congressmen, whose name he did not divulge, stating that this congressman had been told by Mr. Cox that he would not do anything against Mr. Young's candidacy. This and the fact that the Hamilton County delegation last Saturday, while endorsing Representative Charles L. Swain for speaker has not endorsed the other Finley candidate, John R. Cassidy, for clerk, led Young's supporters to discount the positive statements that the governor-elect was for Mr. Cassidy. They also referred to the extreme thinness of the argument that to get progressive legislation it was necessary to have a progressive clerk, saying the sole business of the clerk was to be the servant of the members and that a clerk who tried to influence the members and lobby for votes for progressive or any other kind of bills quickly would get into hot water.

It was learned that Mr. Cox has conceived a high regard for the capabilities of Mr. Cassidy, who displayed them during the constitutional convention by work on the judiciary committee and on the floor. Now he is being variously attacked, even to the extent of trying to make members believe that Logan county voted down every one of the 42 proposed amendments to the constitution in order to discredit Mr. Cassidy, who was the Logan county delegate to the convention.

Because in that convention he moved an amendment, striking out the words, general assembly, and substituting the expression, the people, wherever they occurred in one of the proposals, and also fathered a proposal to have the members of the legislature elected on a nonpartisan ballot, his opponents profess to be amused at his seeking a position in a body he apparently wanted abolished and a partisan nomination from a body which he wanted to make devoid of partisanship.

They also allege he read a parade and made a speech of rejoicing at the time of the acquittal of Orchard and Heywood of the charge of having murdered Governor Steubenburgh of Idaho, and that he has contributed to the Socialist campaign fund. No one has charged he would not make a good clerk.

He is also charged with being a dry, but yesterday it was reported the liberal interests would not unite solidly against him or Swain, though the state candidates will receive the support of most of the drys in the house.

Mr. Swain yesterday declared at Cincinnati that he had enough votes to win the speakership.

Harold D. Sices, a newspaper man of Ashland yesterday became a candidate for message clerk of the house.

C. B. Chilcote, sheriff of Morrow county, yesterday announced his candidacy for marshal of the supreme court and law librarian, the position which has been held for many years by E. Howard Gilkey. As the supreme court is soon to have a Democratic majority, Sheriff Chilcote expects a shakeup.

The court yesterday appointed E. B. Leonard of Warren and James J. Maguire of Cleveland members of the state bar examining committee for five years, to succeed ex-Senator S. H. West of Cleveland and C. H. Workman of Mansfield. Charles J. Pretzman of Columbus was designated as chairman of the committee.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth has accepted appointment by Governor Harmon to membership on the Perry's victory centennial commission, to succeed D. J. Sinclair of Steubenville, resigned.

AUTO THIEF
BELIEVED TO BE INSANE

Officials of the sheriff's office and the probate court are confronted with an unusual situation owing to the strange actions of Frank Barnes, who is confined in the county jail, having been bound over to the grand jury for stealing an automobile belonging to George W. Pickup. The present situation is brought about by the fact that Barnes is showing evidences of insanity.

On November 3 Barnes, who was employed at the Auditorium garage, stole the Pickup machine. He was captured in Columbus in company with a woman. He was returned to Newark and bound over to the grand jury under a bond of $500, in default of which he was ordered committed to the county jail.

For over a week Barnes has been acting strangely and the jail officials are at a loss to know whether he is insane or shamming. He has refused to eat, has taken off most of his clothing and has broken up the cot in his cell. At some periods he has walked for hours at a stretch without stopping. Dr. H. B. Anderson has examined him and has prescribed medicines, but it has taken the combined efforts of several of the other prisoners to force the medicine down his throat.

If this man were under indictment it would be possible to make inquiry as to his sanity before a jury, but he was sent to jail after the adjournment of the September grand jury. The probate court, after the filing of papers, might pass upon his sanity and if it was decided that he is insane commit him to the state hospital, but this would effect the same situation that prevailed some years ago when a prisoner was sent there from Licking county and afterward escaped.

The local officials requested Dr. Gillman of the State Hospital to come to Newark and see Barnes, but this request was refused.

The contingency also arises that if Barnes were sent to the State Hospital by the probate court and an indictment returned against him by the January grand jury he would have to be returned here.

Prosecuting Attorney Phil B. Smythe and Probate Judge Robbins Hunter are in conference on the matter and a decision as to the course to be pursued is expected on Friday.

FIRE MARSHAL
INVESTIGATES
GRANVILLE FIRE

Fires believed to have been the result of incendiaries threatened the destruction of the apartment building owned by Miss L. A. Ransley in South Prospect street, Granville, at an early hour Friday morning. Prompt discovery of the blaze prevented a dangerous and destructive conflagration.

It was 1:15 o'clock when George Stuart, occupying one of the apartments, heard the crackling of the flames and smelled the smoke. His investigation revealed the fact that the rear porch was ablaze. He turned off the gas in his apartment and awakened Walter Livingston, physical director of Denison University, occupying the flats above him.

These two men attacked the flames with buckets of water from above and below and their efforts augmented by assistance of a number of the members of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, soon controlled the flames and prevented them from spreading to other parts of the building.

At 9 o'clock Thursday night there was no indication of fire on the rear porch of the building. One of the occupants of the building was on the back porch after apples from a basket which was kept in that place. Friday morning the basket of apples was found some distance in the rear of the building, indicating that it had been removed sometime between 9 o'clock and the hours of the discovery of the blaze.

Damage to the structure amounted to about $100 and is covered by insurance. The interior was slightly damaged by smoke.

A few years ago, a series of mysterious fires aroused the residents of Granville and the investigation which followed resulted in the arrest of a young man who was later committed to the asylum. He had a mania for setting buildings afire and then ringing the fire bell.

A deputy from the state fire marshal's office arrived in Granville Friday afternoon and will inquire into the mysterious blaze.

A few days ago a small blaze was discovered in the home of a family named Smoke in Mulberry street, but the flames were discovered before any great damage was done. It is believed that this blaze originated from a hot iron which was left on an ironing board.

Hour's Work—Much
Money Distributed

Columbus, Dec. 13.—When the special grand jury called to investigate alleged corruption in connection with the November election in Jefferson county reports at Steubenville today, probably a half dozen or more indictments will be returned; according to an opinion expressed today by Attorney General Hogan, who has returned from the Jefferson county seat, where he had charge of the investigation.

Besides several politicians a number of persons who solicited funds in the alleged interests of candidates probably will be indicted, according to the Attorney General.

"I am well satisfied with the probe just finished. Much money was used in the election in Jefferson county," he said. "The money was distributed in small sums. Many persons were even paid $5 for doing an hour's work, but no indictments will be returned on that score."

Petitions will be filed in the Jefferson county Common Pleas court to compel candidates to file complete expense accounts of their campaigns and no commissions will be issued to those elected to office until the court rules on these accounts, General Hogan said.

NURSE SCORES DOCTOR

Sent Back to Cottage With High Temperature—Major Gerlach Interfered to Save Boy.

Lancaster, O., Dec. 13.—Highly sensational was the story told today to members of the State Board of Administration, who are investigating charges against officials of the State Boys' Industrial School, here by Miss Mary Rhodes, a nurse in the institution's hospital.

The nurse testified of how, she alleged, Dr. V. T. Depuy, the institution's physician, would send sick boys away from the hospital, telling them that they were not sick, even when they had extremely high temperatures. She said that Dr. Depuy continually swore in her presence and in the presence of the boys.

She told the board also that a boy named Rutherford, whose home is in Newark, went to the hospital with a temperature of 103. She said Dr. Depuy told the boy he wasn't sick, and sent him back to the cottage. Miss Rhodes said she told Major Gerlach of the incident, and that the next evening he went to the boys' cottage, and found Rutherford's temperature to be 105. Major Gerlach, she said, ordered the boy taken to the hospital immediately.

Miss Rhodes further said, "Dr. Depuy told me before the examination by the Lancaster physician that the only thing the matter with John Troskey, the Grogan boy, was that he had been punished too severely."

Miss Rhodes denied the statement of Chaplain Schaibly that Dr. Depuy had made improper advances to her. She testified that she would resign her position as she cannot continue to work with Dr. Depuy.

Sacrifice is Spirit of Christmas. A curious thing comes to my mind concerning which I have a word to say, and that is apropos of honesty. No one has a right to give away anything except what may be in excess of the just demands upon the income. The butcher, the baker, the dry goods man, needs his money as surely as does the enthusiastic woman eager to make a pretty gift or the lover to bestow upon his sweetheart what he knows is her heart's desire. Successful Christmas giving should mean self sacrifice, and it is often a greater sacrifice to deny oneself the privilege of expenditure than to do just what one has in mind. I believe that from the nursery days this theory should be inculcated, and as the coming to this world of our blessed Lord was one great act of sacrifice, so in planning for our Christmas gifts each child in the family should be encouraged to something of self sacrifice in the gathering together of the money for his gifts. I like to picture the old fashioned Virginia home, where round the library table, through the fall months the children of the household and the kinfolk and acquaintances who might be within the doors busied themselves in the preparation of dainty nothings which should carry on Christmas morn the sweet words of loving remembrance. — Julia Holmes Smith, M. D., in Pilgrim.

Preparing For Christmas.

"There was a man sent from God." The English of it could not be more simple or direct.

One sees as in a vision the man of the wilderness, clothed in a garment of camel's hair, face that of an ascetic, spare of frame—the man who fed on locusts and wild honey.

And then we stop there. "There was a man sent from God"—that is all. Some of us perhaps who know his story follow him a little further in our mental vision as he went about proclaiming his tidings. Some of us perhaps wonder what the next picture will be. Some of us say over, "There was a man sent from God," with considerable accent on the smallest word, and inevitably remark, "What of it?"

But does it not occur to you that more than one has been "sent"—that for some reason or other every living soul has a mission here and therefore that you and I have one, too, and if we were sent, why?

Not for the mere sending, as we like to believe.

If we were sent there was a purpose in it.

There are "tidings" for our spreading, just as there were in those days of long ago, and a work for us to do.

Are we doing it, or are we so occupied with our own lives and hopes and ambitions and pleasures that we have quite forgotten life was given us for something besides eating and drinking, sleeping and working and general enjoyment?

If this is what we have been doing there is no better season in all the year for starting afresh on a right basis to do the work and carry the messages of happiness to others, for which we were sent.

Somehow Christmas, with all its poetry, has a most practical side. There is so much work to be done.

Are we preparing our Christmas gifts selfishly, giving only to those from whom we expect gifts in return, or are we planning to do a bit of the work for which we were sent—planning to make Christmas a happy time for some of the less favored ones of earth?

And are you doing your utmost? Are

MUSTEROLE--Quick Relief From Rheumatism!

MUSTEROLE is recommended by doctors and nurses. Millions of jars are used annually for Bronchitis—Croup—Stiff Neck—Asthma—Neuralgia—Congestion—Pleurisy—Rheumatism—Lumbago—Pains and aches of the Back or Joints—Sprains—Sore Muscles—Bruises—Chilblains—Frosted Feet—Colds of the Chest. (It prevents Pneumonia.)

At your druggist's in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.00.

Accent no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will mail you a jar postage prepaid.

About the first of September, 1911, I was taken with a bad case of rheumatism. I employed two first class doctors but received no help. A short time since a friend advised me to try Musterole. I did so. In 5 days I was 75 per cent. better and in 15 days I was perfectly well.—T. S. Harman, Deputy Sheriff, Maxville, N. Y.

we giving what we can in our Christmas gifts, or are we giving for the Christ's sake whatever happens to be left over after we have bought expensive gifts for our friends which they do not need, luxuries for ourselves that we could do without, leaving for him the leftover nickels and pennies?

No matter what Christmas has been to us in past years, let us this year give for the sake of the giving, for the sake of those who need it, for the sake of the reason for which we were "sent."

No matter how small the offering if it be our best.

No matter how poor it seems nor how insignificant, it is yours to tell your Christmas tidings, yours to bring Christmas happiness to some one.

Let us prepare our gifts in the right spirit—a spirit to prove that we want to do our part and enjoy doing it, in spreading far and wide the joy and the happiness which Christmas day typifies—joy and happiness which we have been sent to make real to some heart that perhaps knows, but does not feel because of its suffering or bitterness or poverty.—Boston Traveler.

Christmas Bells.

Ring the glad tidings, the Saviour is born! Ring it, ye bells, on this glorious morn! And perched on the branch of my Christmas tree

A motley assemblage of maidens see. Know you what tale to their ear there tells.

Your loud merry clanging, ye Christmas bells?

Then list! To proud Maud looking tenderly down

On jewels that flash on her silken gown, To long braided Gretchen, content with her share Of chains, though not gold, yet of tangles rare, Your chiming weaves sweetest and fairest of spells, Bears whispers prophetic of "wedding bells."

All swiftly as out rings your warning tongue

His sweetheart gets ready the tea for Ah Ling, And ebony Chloe of Fifth Avenue—south—In welcoming smiles spreads her generous mouth.

Far different to them is the treat it foretells—

Your meaning, prosaic, just "dinner bells."

Bianca in tune shakes her gay tambourine,

And lightly to church trips demure Angela.

Bestowing no look to the left nor the right,

Though noting full well the admirer in sight.

But soon a sweet smile all his doubting dispels,

And gaily your chiming betokens "dear bells."

The children run out longed for gifts to receive,

And all the world full is of joy, I believe, For northward and southward, to east and to west,

The bells peal out plainly what each one likes best.

Then ring ye and swing ye, ye gay Christmas bells

Your chiming the fairest of messages tells.

Made a Difference.

"Why was that?"

"Don't know, unless it was that when I said it they had just been married."

FLOUR BARREL COOP.

Cheaply Made and Provides Plenty of Room For the Chickens.

Flour barrels make excellent coops, roomy and cheap, says Farm and Fireside, from which this article and illustration are taken. A little frame is made for the front, consisting of four pieces of board, the uprights 6 by 24 inches, and two cross-pieces, top and bottom, 2 by 20 inches. Fasten frame to front of barrel by wire, leaving opening for door.

Fasten it so that a slide door eight inches wide can be easily dropped in from the top.

This door is made of one-half inch mesh cellar window wire, nailed or stapled to strips of wood. This gives good ventilation and is absolutely vermin proof. Cover barrel with old tin roofing or spouting, so as to make it rain proof and prevent the sun from warping it. Of course a coat of paint will add to its attractiveness, but it is not necessary for practical purposes.

Runs of any size made of wire netting can be attached to the barrel, and with netting over the top of runs the chicks are safe from crows or the annoyance of grown chickens. Barrels and runs can be easily moved to fresh ground.

The runs are made substantial by the addition of a few stakes driven into the ground to support the wire netting.

To the Cynics.
Christmas comes but once a year.
Do not make a jest of it.
'Tis a season of good cheer.
Cynics spoil the zest of it.
Now a respite, brief repose.
Let us make the best of it.
Drown our many weary woes.
Christmas, we are best of it.

Christmas comes but once a year.
Children love the zest of it.
Now a message glad we hear.
Hearken to the best of it.
Just good will and wishes kind
And your love, the best of it.
If we're poor—well, never mind.
Laugh we will and jest of it.

Christmas comes but once a year.
Money's not the test of it.
Hearts alone can help and cheer.
Christ has made the best of it.
Whatever may befall,
Sorrows or the rest of it,
Merry Christmas comes to all.
Even those who jest of it.

DOES SHELTER PAY?

Reckoning the Cost of Keeping Farm Machinery Under Cover.

A correspondent of the Kansas Farmer says that paper places undue importance upon the necessity of sheltering farm implements and that the cost of lumber and interest on the investment in a machinery shed is greater than the depreciation on implements as a result of exposure. The paper replies:

"The average 160 acre farm is regarded as having $1,000 invested in farm machinery, including wagons and buggies. It is our judgment that the average Kansas farm has nearer $1,500 invested. We are confident that the depreciation on farm equipment when exposed to the storms is not less than 10 per cent per year. We are inclined to the belief that it is 20 per cent per year. We know that a 20 per cent depreciation will apply to at least a part of the equipment.

"The more equipment exposed to the weather the larger the depreciation in dollars and cents. One hundred dollars will erect a first class machinery shed. If $100 is not available $50 will erect a shed sufficiently large to house in a very satisfactory manner $1,000 to $1,500 worth of machinery. The $50 shed will be smaller than the $100 shed, and its use will require some piling up of machinery.

"This, however, can be done with no cash outlay and with little outlay of time and labor. If the depreciation on the shed itself is 5 per cent per year and the interest on the investment is 5 or 6 per cent per year there is still a considerable amount in favor of saving the 10 per cent or minimum depreciation on the machinery.

"It does not seem possible that a wide awake farmer would argue against the advantages of good machinery care, even though it be impossible for him to provide a machine shed."

WILL BRYAN GET CABINET PLACE?

His Enemies Bombard Leading Democrats.

RANK AND FILE WANT HIM IN.

Not Known How President Elect Wilson Stands—Little Interest in Archibald Trial—Trying to Amend the Patent Laws—Wants to Popularize Washington's Farewell Address.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Evidently those who do not want Mr. Bryan as secretary of state are making their ideas felt, not on Governor Wilson, because he is too far away, but upon men who will talk to the governor about his cabinet when he returns to this country. It is believed that many reasons will be advanced why Bryan should not be in the cabinet, but the chief will be that several leading Democrats do not want him.

Very much pressure will be brought to bear upon Governor Wilson along this line, and it may cause him to leave Bryan out of his calculations. And yet there is a very strong Bryan element that is just as determined that he shall be recognized. This element does not have quite so many prominent politicians, but it does have a strong sentiment in the Democratic party backing the claims of the Nebraskaan. While the house and senate Democrats have the tariff, the office and other questions to determine what to do with Bryan is one of vital moment to the new administration.

Trial Lacks Interest.

There is little interest in the Archibald impeachment trial. With diddly duty a quorum of the senate is maintained, and frequent roll calls have been necessary. One might naturally think that a body sitting as a jury to try a man on grave charges would want to listen to all the testimony, but that is not true of the senators.

Some of them will read the testimony; others will depend upon what their fellow senators say as to the rights in the case. There is nothing sensational nor exceptional in the case. On the contrary, it is rather dry, and the facts are sordid and uninteresting.

Patent Law Amendment.

When the supreme court decided that a patent holder could regulate the sale of articles manufactured by the patented machine or that a patented article must be sold according to regulations prescribed by the owner of the patent it paved the way for amending the patent laws.

No one can tell just how far this movement to change the patent law will go. Nearly everybody is in favor of every man having the fruits of his creative faculties at least for a term of years, which the law provides, but there is serious opposition to the construction of the law by the recent decision. Congressman Oldfield of the patent committee has reported a bill, which he hopes to have passed the present session, which will materially amend the patent laws and which may take away some of the privileges which they have heretofore granted.

The Efficient Point of Order.

When the house was considering the bill for the physical valuation of railroads efforts were made to include in the measure a provision granting to the United States control of the issue of stocks and bonds of the railroads. Each time a point of order was made against the amendment and sustained because it seemed in conflict with the rules. The point of order is ever an efficient weapon to prevent the house from doing what a majority would vote for if opportunity were allowed.

Admirals and Vice Admirals.

Congressman Padgett, chairman of the naval committee, has finally concluded that the commander of the Atlantic fleet should be an admiral of the navy and has introduced a bill making such commander an admiral when he is in command. The bill also gives the second in command the rank of vice admiral.

Good Reading.

Congressman Riordan of New York has never been much in the limelight while serving as a member of the house, but he has gained notoriety by booming Washington's farewell address. In a resolution he has introduced he proposes that it shall be printed by the million and sent to every postoffice, where a printed notice shall inform every patron that the address can be obtained free.

There is only one trouble about this plan. In these days of city letter carriers and rural free delivery service only a comparatively few persons go to the postoffice, and would not see that they could get the document free of charge. Congressman Riordan should have the postmasters send it to all patrons of their offices and all persons on radiating rural routes.

Fowler on Guard.

Congressman Fowler of Illinois has resumed his old station as guard of the treasury. The little increases of $200 or $1,000 in salaries cannot get by him without his point of order unless the ingenious construction of the rules permits it. Fowler is a thorn in the side of the men handling appropriation bills for they are constantly compelled to explain items and dodge troublesome points of order.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Proper Foods.

The foods we eat in summer should be cooling, not heating. Soups, stews and roasted meats are out of place on the menu. Instead we should eat jellied meats, cold dishes, fish, eggs and cheese. Salads, green vegetables, such as peas, string beans, spinach, cucumbers, melons and all sorts of fruits in their season should be eaten in plenty. The more solid vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, etc., besides being poor at this season, are not the proper food to be taken in summer. All greasy, fat or fried foods should be avoided, and we all know how unappetizing such cooking is on a hot summer day. Nature causes the green foods to grow in abundance in the summer season, and we should take this as an indication of what she designs us to eat in hot weather. Many of these foods, such as rhubarb, for instance, are laxative and therefore are most useful in keeping the body in good order. Meats may be replaced in great part in their strengthening elements by the same elements found in cereals and grains. The use of the coarse flours, graham and whole wheat, instead of the fine white flour, is valuable in summer. Pancakes, heavy puddings, such as plum or heavy fruit puddings, should not be made. Frozen creams, jellies and cold desserts are in order.

The Blessed Christmas Time.
I walked in the world today, dear Lord,
Midst worth and wealth and fame,
Clasped hands with power and beauty,
Lord,
With loveliness and name. ***

I walked in the world today, dear Lord,
Midst perfumes rich and rare,
Earth's choicest exotics poured costly breath
Upon the heavy air. ***

I walked in the world today, my Lord,
Through crowded mall and mart,
Where fruit or loom and press and brush
Each vie for glory's part. ***

I have come apart from the world, dear Lord,
Where the mighty rule and shine,
To find sweet joy at thy blessed side,
To feast on things divine. ***

Oh, the world is poor! I am rich tonight
As I walk in the path of the star's clear light,
And I need no share in the great world's fame.
I am crowned in the faith of the star child's name.

A CHRISTMAS HYMN.

No tramp of marching armies,
No banners flaming far;
A lamp within a stable,
And in the sky a star.

Their hymns of peace and gladness
To earth the angels brought;
Their "Gloria in Excelsis"
To earth the angels taught

When in the lowly manger
The holy mother laid
In tender adoration
Her Babe of Heaven laid.

Born lowly in the darkness,
And none so poor as he,
The little children of the poor
His very own shall be.

No rush of hostile armies,
But just the huddling sheep,
The angels singing of the Christ
And all the world asleep.

No flame of conquering banners,
No legions sent afar;
A lamp within a stable,
And in the sky a star.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

Time It! No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they really relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite, but what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few constipated days, especially in Old People, unless you take yourself in hand.

Coax the faded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for Calomel. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistency and Nature's assistance.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets oil the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

NERVOUS TROUBLES DRIVE AWAY HAPPINESS

Tona Vita will Quickly Drive Away the Nervous Troubles.

People who are all run-down in health, who are worn out, nervous and half sick, are apt to be thoroughly discouraged. They are half-hearted, listless and depressed and feel that this is a terrible world, with many pains in it and few pleasures.

This state of mind is recognized by physicians as a common symptom of nervous debility.

If you are one of the many Americans who are suffering with nervous breakdown or nerve exhaustion you can get back your old health and spirits in a few weeks' time. Go to your druggist and obtain a bottle of Tona Vita. This remarkable tonic is helping thousands back to health and it will not fail in your case. In fact, it never fails. You will be astonished how quickly it will build you up both in mind and body.

Tona Vita is sold by R. F. Collins

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS TREE.

Custom Originated With Northern. Hanging the Stockings.

Across the English channel, where the Gauls and the Franks and the northmen observed the stern rites of the severe religion of a strong hearted race, trees formed an important part in the festive observances of the feast days. The pine tree—ever in all ages an object of deserved admiration—was greatly revered by the northern folk. At the time of the midwinter celebration the northmen hung gifts upon the tree for their gods. As is readily seen, when the early fathers of the church came to this fierce people with their message of peace it was easy to change the idea of gifts proffered to heathen deities into a custom where offerings were made to the Christian God.

Thus from such humble beginnings began the cherished customs which are our heritage of today. Gift giving on the birthday of Christ may be logically traced to that observance prevalent in the middle ages of having Christmas boxes wherein offerings were placed for the priests. Christmas boxes gradually became an institution in Christian families as well.

Hanging up the stockings on Christmas eve, as the institution of good St. Nicholas, old Santa Claus, is of purely Christian origin and started in Germany many hundred years ago. It has become one of the most cherished of the Christmas customs of the civilized world.—National Monthly.

Because it is too light and slips through the fingers too easily the French government has decided against its proposed aluminum coinage.

BELINDA, SHE ARRIVES

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

Miss Belinda Jones was the old maid sister of Horace Jones, and, taken all around and full and by, Horace didn't amount to shucks. In the first place, he was a third rate preacher with a fourth rate congregation and a fifth rate salary.

Sister Belinda had lived in his family and helped at the support for a number of years and then had cut loose and gone west. There she had hustled with the rest, teaching school, running a boarding house and becoming a sheep owner and had finally acquired an interest in a mine. She had been forwarding money at intervals for a long time and receiving few thanks in reply when she planned a visit east. She reached her brother's house in the middle of the week and had time to look about a bit before Sabbath and his sermon arrived. She had said very little, and the family couldn't exactly make her out.

It was after returning from church and finishing dinner that she took the bull by the horns and said:

"Horace, you can't preach for this! There's many a cowboy or herder that can beat you ten to one!"

There were five exclamations of protest and amazement from the five members of the family. "It's a fact, Horace, and I want you to cut it out. I've been making some inquiries since I arrived, and I find that you ain't knee high. You haven't made a convert in seven years. It ain't in you."

"Belinda Jones!" was almost shouted by five tongues.

"Your congregation only paid you $30 last year, but that was more'n you were worth."

"I have sent you $300 in two years, but not another penny of my cash do you receive unless you toe the mark?"

"And the mark, sister?" asked the brother.

"I'll give you five minutes by the clock to go out of the vineyard business."

"But I was called to"—
"Chop it off! You selected it because you thought it suited you. You haven't pulled one single hair from Satan's head. One minute gone!"

"But my dear flock?"

"Won't suffer in the least. Indeed, they will feel relieved, and so will you."

"Awful—awful!" sobbed the wife.

"Can such things be!" sobbed the daughters.

"Two minutes gone!" announced Belinda.

"Do I understand that if I resign my pastorate I am to look for something better at your hands?" candidly queried the brother.

"You do, but there will be work and hustle connected with it. You'll lose fat for a few weeks."

"Oh, Horace, what a sister!"

"Oh, papa, what a person!"

"Three minutes gone!" said Belinda, as unkindful of the tears and sobs she looked at the clock.

"Sister," replied Horace as he came off the perch at last, "it has sometimes struck me that perhaps I had missed my profession."

"Good!"

"And that I wasn't doing my duty by my family?"

"Now you are getting down to brass tacks!"

"Well, you may consider that I have resigned my pastorate and am now looking for another job."

"My husband a laborer!" sobbed the wife.

"Our papa sawing wood for a living!" moaned the girls.

"I'll attend to all your cases in due time," grimly announced Belinda. And then, turning to her brother, she said:

"I see that your grist mill here is to be sold cheap on account of the death of the miller."

"Yes!"

"I'll buy it for you tomorrow. You'll soon work into the business. You need a new fence in front of the house. Get a carpenter. The house needs repainting. Get a painter. Go to the stores and see what your debts are and I'll square you up. You'll want 250 bushels of wheat to begin on. I'll buy it for you."

"I have often said the Lord was my shepherd, and I!"

"Drop it, Horace! You'd have wanted Johnny cake and lasses in a month more if you hadn't toed the mark."

Then she turned to the wife and said: "You have hardly a second dress to your back, and you don't have a caller or pay a call once in three months. Cease your howling and make your garden raise vegetables to help out. Being the wife of a third rate preacher don't put a woman way up in G."

"Emice, you and Clara have got beaux. They have been fiddling around for a year. If you can't bring them to time I can and that in short order."

"Oh, Aunt Belinda!" in chorus.

"Never mind your Aunt Belinda, but give these fellows the glad 'yes' and get home. And now for you, Catherine. You are too young to get married. Select your school, and I will keep you there till you graduate."

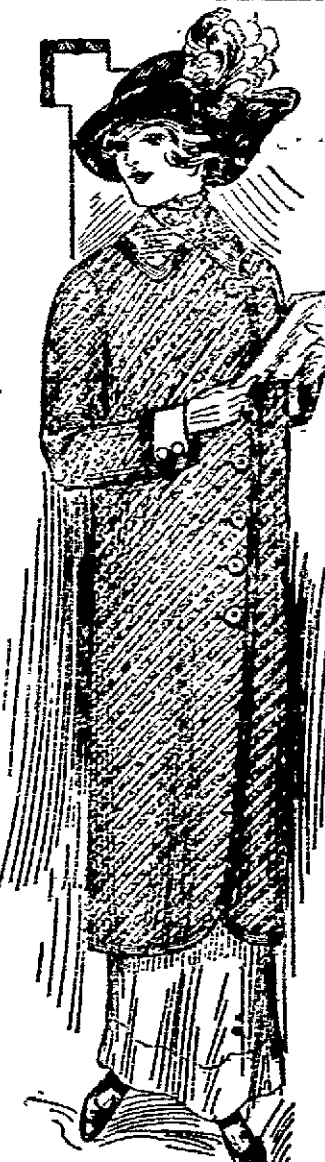

"Sister Belinda, will you permit me to say that Providence?" began the brother, but was stopped by:

"Shucks! Now as to myself. The man I'm engaged to is coming on in about a fortnight, and we are going to be married right in this house."

"And I could have performed the ceremony!" exclaimed Horace.

"Nix! First class or no wedding! Now let us sing a gospel hymn and be glad."

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

PRESIDENT LOWELL OF HARVARD, 56 TODAY, LONG A LAWYER

Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University since the retirement of Dr. Eliot in 1909, will today receive the congratulations of faculty, students and alumni on his fifty-sixth birthday. While Dr. Lowell's ancestry cannot be traced back to the Mayflower, he is a lineal descendant of the John Lowell who settled in Boston in the Seventeenth century, and whose descendants have included many famous men, among them James Russell Lowell, the late poet. Born in Boston, on December 13, 1856, President Lowell is by hereditary breeding, environment and temperament a Bostonian—a Back Bay Bostonian.

A pure-bred Bostonian is always one of two things. He is a snob, a would-be aristocrat, who lives in the musty past, and spends two-thirds of his bragging about his ancestry, the remaining third being consumed in dreaming about his ancestry. He is that, or he is one of the most useful and democratic of men, broad, tolerant and intellectual, a thinker, and a doer. Dr. Lowell belongs in the latter category. When he stated that he wanted Harvard to be a "poor man's college," he was voicing a sincere conviction. If he had his way, he would abolish the "gold coast" in which the rich students segregate themselves, and establish dormitories in which the wealthy and the poor would mingle on terms of democracy. And that it should be attended only by poor men, nor that the wealthy should be entirely excluded, but rather that, as in the community at large, the poor should predominate. I desire that the university should be truly representative of the great world outside—rich, poor and the middle class. "That is the ideal student body in which the balance between rich and poor as it exists in the community also exists at the university. The working class predominates in the community, and the working class should therefore predominate at college. I hope Harvard will ever remain representative of the whole community. She is growing more so every year, for there is a steady increase in working students—a trend more and more toward the poor man's college. Harvard is by no means a millionaire's club as is erroneously believed by many people."

A Story of the Western Plains of Former Times

By TIMOTHY WENTWORTH

"This yere country," said the old plainsman, "is bein' civilized so fast that every time I come back to it I scarcely know it. Where there was a trail there's now a macadamized road. Where there was a few log houses there's a town lighted by electricity and runnin' trolleys. Where there was jewsharps or perhaps a fiddle there are now pianos. Where there was three card monte sharks, now there's the gentlemanly swindler. And the punishments is all changed too. If a man shot another in them days nobody took much notice of the fact, but they hung a boss thief. Now, if a man shoots another, there's a murder case draggin' through the courts for years, and if a thief gets away with a team like enough the police is in cahoots with him, and the owner is glad enough to pay for gittin' the boss back and no questions asked."

"Singular," I remarked to the old man, "how different conditions require different treatment."

"So they do," he rambled on. "The nearer you git down to nature the simpler the forms of law. But it isn't always so cold blooded down near the bottom as you'd suppose. I've known the most hardened villain to give his life for a woman or a child. There was lots o' misery in them days. Just as there is now. Families would come out yere from the east, not knowin' what they was comin' to, git stranded and if it hadn't been for the help of some gambler or road agent would starve to death."

"Did you ever have any such experiences?" I asked.

"Waal, yes; so I did. I had one that turned out mighty important to me. Fact is, I hain't got over the effects of it yit. When these yere plains was covered with herds o' wild buffalo me and Jack Cundiff followed the business, huntin' 'em for their skins. In them days buffalo robes was used instead of the finer furs they use now and was a staple article in the market. That's what killed 'em off so fast. We that was huntin' 'em used to jist slaughter 'em for the money there was in 'em."

"What I was goin' to tell you about happened near the foothills of the Rockies west o' where Chereenne now stands. It stood there then, but it was the terminus of the Union Pacific railroad, and a tough place it was, too, with its gamblin' and dance houses and other sich shebangs. Jack and I was in camp one day, as I was tellin' you, near the base of the mountains. Buffaloes were getting scarce, and we allowed we'd turn to prospectin' for gold. We didn't have anything with us that was worth anything except our hosses, so when we went to sleep nights we jist turned in without worryin' unless at the loss of the animals. Since a man couldn't git over the ground without one of 'em they was mighty valuable. Fact is, they was the most valuable thing to be had. And that's why we strung up the hoss thieves and didn't string up the men shooters. There was plenty of men, but only so many hosses, and each hoss would bring a good price at any time or anywhere."

"Jack Cundiff and I was smokin' our pipes after our noon meal of hog fat and crackers, talkin' over whether we'd better give up the buffalo skin business and try our luck at prospectin', when along comes two young fellers on foot and, seein' our camp, stopped and looked at us. They said some'n to each other, then was goin' on, when I hailed 'em and asked if they didn't want anything. They came to where we was an' we had a powwow."

"They said they was brothers. The older one was middle height, but the younger was small. They was both so young that their beards hadn't sprouted yit, and they looked hungry. I asked 'em what they was doin' without hosses, and they said they didn't own any hosses. We questioned 'em where they'd come from and where they was goin', but they didn't seem to have a home, and I couldn't learn from 'em that they was goin' anywhere. Fact is, they was down on their luck."

"We offered 'em some'n to eat, an' they chaved it up mighty fast. Then I poured out a cupful of whisky and handed it to the oldest one of the two. He tried to drink it, but I could see plain enough it was burnin' out his throat. There wasn't any use givin' it to his brother. If the oldest couldn't drink the stuff the other shore couldn't. I thort the biggest one looked big enough to drink whisky, but I was not surprised at the little feller not wantin' it."

"They looked so tired that Jack and I asked 'em if they didn't want to stay with us awhile and rest. They said they'd like to git some sleep, so we laid out a buffalo skin for 'em, and they lay down beside each other, and fust thing we knowed they was fast asleep. The younger boy's arm throwed around the older one's neck. Jack and I looked down at 'em, and we felt so sorry for 'em that we allowed we'd do some'n for 'em. So while they was a-sleepin' we stufed some gold into their pockets. They must 'a' been mighty sleepy, for they didn't wake up while we was doin' it."

"About supper time we woke 'em, and when they see we was goin' to make coffee and fry bacon the oldest feller said he'd like to pay his way by doin' the cookin' and seemed so anxious about it that we let him do it. Lord, how handy he was, handlin' the skillet jist like a woman! He got into our supplies and found some cornmeal and made a mess of corn pone that beat anything of the kind I ever eat. I told him he must 'a' done cookin' for his livin'."

"When we'd had our meal he and his brother washed the dishes and wiped 'em jist as if we was all in a house. Jack and I had been used if we was near a creek to puttin' 'em in it and lettin' the water run over 'em, but we never thort o' wipin' 'em. It seemed too much trouble. When the boys got through we found they hadn't anything to smoke, and we offered 'em pipes. They both took 'em and puffed as if they'd never smoked before in their lives, but the fust thing I knowed the littler one turned white and went off behind a bush to get rid of his supper. The big one smoked only a few minutes when he laid his pipe down."

"How old are you fellers anyway?" I asked. "You act like a couple o' kids."

"I'm twenty," said the big one, "and my brother is seventeen."

"Twenty years old and can't drink or smoke?" I hollered. "Where was you brought up?"

"He said they came from the east, but that was no news, for they both looked like tenderfoots that had been long enough in the country to git run down."

"So far neither of 'em had put his hands in his pocket, but the youngster when he come back from the bush lay down on the ground, and after rollin' over two or three times he caught sight of somepin' shinin' on the ground, picked it up and found it was a five dollar gold piece. You'd ought to see the look on his face. Then he put his hand in his pocket and pulled out another one."

"How did that come there?" he asked.

"Haven't you got any of 'em?" I asked his brother.

"The feller put his hand in his pocket and pulled out some gold too."

"See here," he said; "you men have been puttin' that gold in our pockets."

"Well, s'posin' we have," I remarked.

"The brothers looked at each other mighty queer."

"This is too much," said the big one. "If you knowed all about us you wouldn't 'a' done it."

"He looked as if he was agoin' to cry."

"Who are you?" I asked.

"I think," he said, lookin' at the other one, "we'd better tell 'em the whole thing."

"Reckon we had."

"That oldest one he began to tell us a story, and before he'd half finished he got to cryin'. That set his brother to doin' the same. I hate to see a man cry, and I told 'em to stop their blubberin'."

"I can't," said the one that was talkin'. "I ain't a man; neither is he. We're girls. We're out to run off stock. Our folks is over there beyond the hills, starvin', and my sister and I allowed we'd got to go and git somepin' to sell for money to buy victuals with. Hosses is all that's worth anything, and we was goin' to light out tonight with two of yours. But your kindness has broken us all up. We can't do it."

"Jack saw me feelin' for more gold, and his hand went to his own pocket. We handed out a couple o' more pieces and that opened the dam o' tears still wider. We told 'em it would be all right in the mornin'. We'd go over to where they lived and see what we could do for 'em. Then we spread all the buffalo skins we had, one over the other, to make a bed for 'em and put on a couple o' blankets for cover, and they turned in."

"I reckon that was the fust night's sleep they'd had in a long while without feelin' that the bottom o' the world was a-droppin' out under 'em. Jack and I didn't do nothin' till they got to sleep. We hadn't left ourselves anything to sleep on or under except our overcoats, and we allowed we'd keep up the fire all night, and we spread our coats over the girls, 'cause it's cold in that region when the sun's gone down."

"Next mornin' the girls got breakfast, and now I knew they was girls I wasn't so struck with the handy way they had and what good things they could make out o' our small stock o' provisions. After breakfast we all went over the hills to their home. We found a log hut and a family. The father was sick, the mother frightfully run down and the children the most miserable sight I ever saw. They'd come out to the west not knowin' what they was goin' to find, and they hadn't found nothin'."

"First thing Jack and I done was to go out and shoot a couple o' antelopes. There was a lake not far away with some good fish in it, and we pulled out some of 'em. We stayed with the family till we got 'em in pretty good condition so far as grub goes; then we went down to Denver and come back with a lot o' clothes. But they didn't stay where they was very long. The man got well and took 'em all to Denver, where he got a position with a firm that did a business he knowed all about, and pretty soon he was gittin' a good salary."

"Jack and I stayed in Denver, too, for we'd got tired prospectin', not havin' the luck to strike any big thing. We had a little money between us, and we went into buyin' minin' stock, first off odd lots, and makin' suthin, we went on till we sized up a purty good pile. We found it easier to make money that way than prospectin'."

"What became of the two girls," I asked. "who were intending to run off your stock?"

"Oh, the girls? Why, I married the oldest one, and Jack Cundiff married the other."

The Right Way to make Healthful Coffee

Coffee boiled for any length of time in ordinary pots, or sprayed with boiling water, as in ordinary percolators, loses its fine aroma in steam. It becomes bitter and unwholesome in proportion to the length of time it boils.

The best coffee pot is the one which automatically completes the process before the water boils. The

UNIVERSAL

Coffee Percolators

are the only ones that fill this requirement. The water, lukewarm at first, is forced up through the tube and percolates through the coffee, gradually increasing in temperature until the boiling point is reached, when the coffee is ready to serve. This is the perfection of the drip process.

The Yuletide Gift

A favorite poem made into a booklet makes a charming gift.

A fat leather penwiper for his desk makes an appropriate souvenir for the business man or woman.

A bookin case with three bookins is a useful Christmas gift for the needlewoman.

A homemade booklet of a dozen reliable chafing dish recipes will be prized by the housewife.

A blotter, the upper side made of a picture postcard of yourself, is a simple yet valued gift for an intimate friend.

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas comes but once a year. Let's enjoy it while it's here. Eat your turkey without fear. Never pause to shed a tear. Should you feel a trifle queer After wings or running gear, Neck and nape's a real y-fer. Take a pill a'laek thwatt. He who never dares to eat Waffles, cakes or sausage meat, Nothing sour, nothing sweet; Lives a week on shredded corn, Never smoked since he was born; Water's all he ever drinks. Living low, he highly thinks. Christmas turkey, Christmas pie, Christmas pudding, Christmas sigh! Merry Christmas! Merry week! Happy New Year! Very meek!

PRETTY CHRISTMAS TABLE.

An Old Fashioned Party For the Children.

The arrangement of a table at a Yuletide party was quite unusual, inasmuch as it was an old fashioned square one, lengthened to accommodate twelve children. It was pushed back against the wall, and at the back was the largest sized Yule log candy box, resting on a bed of holly and mistletoe.

On top of the log was a doll dressed as a jester, called the "Lord of Mistletoe," and attached to the front end of the log by red ribbons were six dolls dressed to represent the first six months of the year. Following after the log were six more figures dressed like the last six months. At each plate were a holly paper covered horn and a wee tree lit with red wax tapers.

The children were to blow out the candles, making a wish for each one. If they go out with the very first puff the wish will come true. A white and red Christmas ribbon goes to each plate, fastened by a spray of holly. Then each child looks at the dolls and says which one he or she thinks represents the month in which they were born.

If there should be two in the same month the one who is the oldest gets the doll for that month. As there is one for each guest, a satisfactory adjustment is easily made. The Yule log also contains small favors for each guest.

English Plum Pudding.

For those who want their plum puddings homemade the following recipe may prove useful:

Take one-half pound of finely shredded suet, one-half pound of washed and dried currants, three-fourths of a pound of stoned raisins, four tablespoonfuls of dried and sifted breadcrumbs, three tablespoonfuls of warm sifted flour, five ounces of loaf sugar, three eggs, three ounces of shredded citron, one-half nutmeg grated and a teaspoonful of brandy. Mix these well together, adding enough milk to make it of nice consistency, and boil for six or eight hours.

This pudding keeps admirably, and when it is not to be used for some time it should be boiled, say, for six hours and then hung from a hook in the storeroom until about to be used, when it should again be placed in the pan and boiled for another and a half or two hours longer.

It may be boiled in a mold, a basin or a cloth and must be kept in which ever is chosen until ready to be served.

A Mean Holiday Spirit.

Do not gauge your Christmas giving. There is nothing more despicable than to work off the back numbers or the shabby, useless gifts on the girl who "needs everything" and spend a small fortune on those who can spend on themselves.

Christmas Eve.

The hour of time where the frost's gray rime
In fantastic glamour lies;
A sheen of light on the gleaming white
That mirrors the spangled skies;
A great cold star in the heavens afar
And a moon trail on the hills;
The earth sufficed with an awe fulfilled
And the night with music thrilled.

The carolers sing as the church bells ring.
Wade up in the organ loft
The sage owls croon as the calm, sweet tune
Comes swelling, but ever soft.
The message flies through the changing skies
By changing time and tongue,
But ever the same as the tale that came
The shepherd men among.

Where the mistletoe and the laurel bough
And the holly and bay are twined,
Where the hearth fire gleams as in ancient dreams
One age is but in mind.
As in modern dreams the hearth fire gleams,
So, under the easement still,
The carolers sing as the tower tongues swing
Man's peace and God's good will.

FOR CHRISTMAS

LYON & HEALY PIANO

The Lyon & Healy piano is pure in tone. If you knew nothing else about the Lyon & Healy piano, the name on the fall board would interest you and favorably impress you, because you know what that name stands for—the largest music house in the world.

But—Name alone is not enough.

Too often an established name stands for mere complacency. The Lyon & Healy policy compels progress. Therefore, while the Lyon & Healy name means much, the Lyon & Healy tone quality means infinitely more.

Strip the Lyon & Healy piano of every mark of identification. Then compare its performance with that of other pianos. Its individual charm would still win you, even though it were nameless.

There is an aristocracy of pianos as of men. Blood will tell in either case. The care and skill lavished on the Lyon & Healy piano make it what it is today. The cultivation—the finesse—that comes of doing a thing always better continuing to do it so, reaches a climax in the Lyon & Healy piano.

It is not name—nor quality—nor tone color—alone, that makes the Lyon & Healy the delight of musicians, the admiration of the connoisseur. It is the possession of all these qualities combined.

Every necessary and desirable piano merit is united and brought into full flower in this superb instrument and backed by a guarantee as exceptional as the piano itself.

Such a reputation and such a clear, singing tone quality, you may find in a few—a very few—other pianos. But such a reputation and such a tone quality, reinforced by such a guarantee and sold on such prices and terms as we offer, can be had in the Lyon & Healy piano only.

NEW WAREHOUSE
FOR THE NEWARK
TELEPHONE CO.

Work was started Thursday morning for handling the new volume of business and stable for the Newark Telephone company on the north side of the Canal, between Third and Fourth streets. The building is to be constructed of concrete blocks and is 20 by 60 feet in size. It will be used for a ware and storage room and also for the accommodation of the company's horses and wagons. The work will be rushed as rapidly as the weather will permit.

The erection of the new building is necessitated by the company's rapidly increasing business. The automatic plant is fast growing in favor with the public and increased facilities for handling the new volume of business will be taken care of as occasion demands. Manager Charles Hollander stated Friday morning that nothing but the best and newest equipment would be used by the company's company in new extension work. He is highly pleased with the past year's business and predicts a corresponding increase for the coming new year.

BRONCHITIS PREVALENT

Brooklyn, N. Y., Man Tells of Best Remedy.

At this season of the year with such sudden changes, it so easy to take cold, and almost before one is aware there is inflammation in the bronchial tubes—a hard cough and unless checked in time chronic pulmonary troubles may result.

Wilbur Adams of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "A severe bronchial trouble contracted in January caused me much difficulty about breathing. My chest felt clogged up and there was considerable soreness all of which made me quite uneasy, besides being very painful."

I tried different remedies without help, but I am glad to say that Vinol cured my bronchial trouble which had lasted for three months. My breathing is all right now and the soreness entirely gone from my chest."

Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cod livers (without oil) and tonic iron. We guarantee it to be delicious in taste and to satisfy you with its medicinal effects. Frank D. Hall, Druggist, Newark, Ohio.

POLICE RECORD OF BURGLAR CAPTURED BY NEWARK WOMAN

Chief of Police Blizzard has received a letter from Chief of Police Carter of the Columbus department, giving the record of Edward Fisher, alias Ted Hayes, arrested here on the night of November 27 for burglarizing the home of Mrs. Curran in West Church street.

Fisher was arrested twice in Columbus under the name of Hayes. He was charged with insulting women on the street when arrested the first time and with peeping into windows when arrested the second time. On this occasion, he was charged by a Columbus woman who fired at Hayes, the bullet lodging in his foot. He was captured and given a suspended workhouse sentence on account of the injury.

The Columbus department now holds an affidavit against him charging forgery. The affidavit was filed a few days before he was arrested in Newark under the name of Fisher.

It will be remembered that Fisher was found in the Curran home by Mrs. Curran when she returned about 10 o'clock on the night before Thanksgiving. She tackled Fisher and held him until the police officers, called by her daughter, arrived and placed him under arrest.

WILL LAY MAINS TO ADVANCE GLASS COMPANY'S PLANT

Workmen from the city waterworks department have been erecting the rigging for laying of water mains in the Rugg Addition in North Newark. The ditch work has been completed. As soon as the mains have been put under ground, the department will start the work on the extension of the mains to the Advance Glass company's plant in West Newark to afford that factory adequate fire protection. It will be necessary to rush this work as it was found that the ground was frozen this morning to a depth of four inches. Frozen ground increases the cost of ditching and the department wishes to avoid this as far as possible.

* FIRST THINGS *

The first session of the Council of Trent, which has been described as the watershed of Roman Catholicism and Protestantism, and at which were first formulated some of the most important and vital doctrines of the modern Catholic church, was held 277 years ago today, December 13, 1545, Trent, the scene of the historical gathering, is the ancient Tridentum, and is in what is now the Austrian Tyrol. The decisions of the council have been implicitly received as the standard of faith, morals, and discipline for the Catholic world. The council lasted, with interruptions, 18 years, under three popes, Paul III, Julius III and Pius IV. At this council was decreed, with anathemas, the canon of Scripture including the Apocrypha, and the church its sole interpreter; the traditions to be equal with Scripture; the seven sacraments—baptism, confirmation, the Lord's supper, penance, extreme unction, orders and matrimony; and also the doctrines of transubstantiation, purgatory, indulgences, celibacy of the clergy, auricular confession, and others.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

At the End of the Long Distance Phone

SOMETIMES it is helpful to get away from the world for a while; to sit, as it were, at the end of long distance phones, and hear the voices from the world coming to you, but yet to have no part in that rushing, busy life of which the voices tell. As you sit and listen, you seem to see life as in a vision, and to get a better understanding of it. One voice comes sad and bitter. The speaker is consumed with the desire for money. For him, everything in life centres around that one frenzied ambition to be rich. And all the good things of life that he has, his comfortable home, his charming wife, his good children, are as nothing to him. He neither appreciates the blessings that are already his, nor enjoys the pleasures at his hand, because his eyes are fixed feverishly on the money goal ahead. And the harder he strives for it the farther it recedes from him.

Over another wire comes the troubled voice of one whose family are a continual source of worry. He is doing his part courageously in the world and standing by his post unflinchingly. But others are making his life unhappy. One sister's violent temper is upsetting the family peace, almost disrupting the home. A brother's laziness puts a double burden on him. And so the tale goes. And life to him is one continual season of worry and unhappiness because of the conduct of others.

And over another wire comes a sorrowful voice telling of unrequited love. Life is black to this one and full of emptiness because his very deep and sincere love has gone out to a woman who does not return it. To him, it is a sorrow that simply must be grimly endured. It cannot be cured. But life has lost all savor. And nothing seems worth while.

And other voices come full of petty troubles,—of dreams longed for but beyond the means, of social slights, of lack of appreciation, of unsatisfied ambition.

And all the time, life itself is flowing around this old world of ours, serene and goodly. There is nothing wrong with life itself. It is sweet and wholesome. The fault is with us and the way we are using it. We are twisting it and warping it and trying to bend it into channels that never were intended. And thus we reap confusion. Humanity is making all the woe and misery that floods the earth by misusing life. Life itself is a goodly thing.

Barbara Boyd.

Mrs. Martha Cummings of Maple avenue has returned from Columbus, where she has been the guest of Mrs. George Hedrick for a few days.

Miss Mary Evans and niece, Miriam Thompson of Thirteenth street, went to Cleveland this morning to visit the former's sister, Mrs. J. E. Bolen.

Mrs. W. T. Morrison, whose injury within a few hours after her marriage was reported in yesterday's Advocate, is reported as recovering nicely at her home on Lawrence street.

Miss Martha Harshorn, who has been confined to her home for several months, following an attack of paralysis, has sufficiently recovered to enjoy the Christmas shopping season.

The following out-of-town friends and relatives attended the funeral of Mrs. Pauline Braunhold, held yesterday afternoon: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Borchers, Miss Corinne Borchers, Miss Ida Engleke, Mr. and Mrs. D. FUN IN "FUTURES."

Fortune Telling For the Christmas Party.

Anything in the nature of fortune telling is always popular, and, notwithstanding denials, there is a vein of superstition in every one's character. No game is more heartily entered into than one dealing ostensibly with fate or the future. Be it intricate or simple, it is fully enjoyed.

In the game of futures great fun is sure to ensue, because the futures can be previously arranged to suit the conditions of certain people, although generally the one in charge of the web of fate knows as little of what will be revealed as the individual himself.

From a given center, cords of all colors and conditions, no two alike, extend in every direction—upstairs, downstairs and almost in my lady's chamber, across each other here and there, often being knotted together at these points of intersection. Each searcher winds up his cord as he proceeds, and many difficulties in the way of knots to be untied and round and round windings, to be unwound he encounters. When he finally reaches his future it usually proves to be a coin, a toy, a book of nursery tales or some article of absolute absurdity. This he takes back to the individual who started him in pursuit of his fate, who must be clever enough to give him quite a little information as to what will or will not happen, basing his remarks on the "future" he found at the end of the cord. Each "future" thus found is to be considered significant of other things.

USE VIN HEPATICA

And Get Rid of Your Catarrh Trouble

Catarrh gets its start by an irritation of the mucous lining of the nose and throat, making you liable to take cold easily.

Its principal symptom is a discharge from the nose. Some times the discharge is thick and offensive. At other times it is thin and watery. Often there is pain and heaviness across the forehead, accompanied by sneezing and a rise of mucus from the throat.

Catarrhal affections keep the mucous lining of the entire system in a constantly irritated condition. There is always more or less feverishness and discomfort. Frequently it results in a weak, gassy stomach and bowel trouble.

Catarrh of the Internal organs, bronchial tubes and lungs quickly develops if the disease is allowed to run on. In fact it spreads to all the vital parts of the body once the mucous membrane is infected, and is the cause of ninety per cent of all stomach trouble.

When the digestive organism is affected you will have dull headaches, dizzy spells, a sour stomach and heavy feeling after eating. Other symptoms you cannot mistake are the coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, indigestion, belching of gas, offensive breath and nervous attacks.

Use VIN HEPATICA for a few weeks and you will have no catarrhal troubles. If you are run-down, it will build you up. It is the best remedy in all stages of catarrh and will positively produce the desired results.

YOU CAN NOW PURCHASE VIN HEPATICA AT T. J. EVANS' DRUG STORE.

The Theatres

Last Night's Play.

The National Stock Company pleased another large audience at the Auditorium last evening, the play being "The Girl of the Trail." The specialties were fine and the audience repeatedly encored the different numbers. "The woman of Mystery," a four act drama will be presented tonight and Saturday afternoon will occur the big souvenir matinee. The company is far above the average repertoire company on the road and all should make an endeavor to see one of their plays before they close their engagement in this city.

SEATS ON SALE TOMORROW "FOR THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS."
The seat sale for the return engagement of John Hyams and Leila McIntyre in "The Girl of My Dreams" at the Auditorium on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, opens tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and judging from the inquiries at the box office the sale will be without a doubt the largest of the current season. Manager Johnson announced that the scale of prices for the engagement has been slightly reduced from last season when they ranged from 50c to $1.50, on account of the nearness of the holidays. The prices will run as follows. Lower floor 15 rows, $1.50, 6 rows $1.00. Balcony 2 rows $1.00, 4 rows 75c, 3 rows 50c, gallery 25c.

"The Girl of My Dreams" is a most appropriate attraction as it has a pretty Xmas tree and musical number in it which appeals to grown ups as well as "the kiddies." It scored a tremendous hit here last April and there is no reason why the Auditorium should not be packed to the doors to welcome the return of these popular stars.

NOVELTY MATINEE TOMORROW.
The National Stock company announces a children's novelty matinee at the Auditorium tomorrow at which time every child in attendance will receive free a toy or novelty of some kind. The National company has made a very good impression this week and should attract a great many children and grown-ups to the matinee tomorrow. "My Drue Girl" which was splendidly presented Tuesday night, will be the bill for tomorrow afternoon and "On the Suwanee River" in the evening.

JOHN HYAMS AND LEILA MCINTYRE COMING BACK.
Jos. M. Gaites most plentiful offering of good things comical and musical. John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, in the delightful play, "The Girl of My Dreams" will be the attraction at the Auditorium for a return engagement Tuesday, Dec. 17.

JOHN HYAMS AND LEILA MCINTYRE IN THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS AT AUDITORIUM, TUESDAY, DEC. 17.

Auditorium for a return engagement Tuesday, Dec. 17.

John Hyams, one of the stars, is exceptionally clever. He knows the value of every funny line and situation and it is impossible not to laugh at and with him. Leila McIntyre, as the demure little Quakeress, has made a decided hit, dancing and singing her way into favor. The "O-o-h (Maybe It's a Robber)" number introduced by Miss McIntyre and Mr. Hyams is delightfully interpreted.

In addition to the bright up-to-date and breezy fun supplied by the authors, Wilbur D. Nesbit and Otto Hauerbach, there are many distinct novelties of stage-craft.

Karl Hoschan's music is all catenry, and the number "Doctor Dinkie Tinker" has achieved the "hustling stage." The seat sale opens tomorrow at 9 a. m. Prices will range from 25c to $1.75.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Leon Washburn's Stebbins' "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company will be seen at the Auditorium Wednesday, Dec. 19, matinee and night, in the everlasting favorite drama, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It will be remembered that in this beautiful play there are moments of the greatest intensity. The company engaged for the recreation has been selected with great care, and an adequate scenic equipment and electrical effects will furnish an admirable background for the excellent performance. Special school children's matinee at 2:30. Children Dec. 19th's 25c.

"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS."

"The Shepherd of the Hills," Harold Bell Wright's novel, which has been accorded the largest sale in the history of publishing in America, has been made into a play by Mr. Wright with the assistance of Elsbury W. Reynolds. It will be seen for the first time in this city at the Auditorium Xmas matinee and night. It tells a beautiful story of the Ozark mountains a story that holds the auditor by its thrills from the beginning to the end. It is unique in character drawing, giving to the stage a somewhat new atmosphere. The beauty of the Ozark mountain region lends itself to some very effective stage pictures, and Gaskill and MacVitt, the producers, are said to have given the play an exceptionally beautiful mounting.

"SEVEN HOURS IN NEW YORK."
"Seven Hours in New York" will appear here soon. It is a musical play with a big cast and chorus and comes to the Auditorium New Year's matinee and night.

The Orpheum.
There is a good show at the Orpheum. The bill is a big feature. The show opens with the Moralis Brothers, comedy acrobats and jugglers. The boys do many clever tricks and have a nice act different from all other acts under the title. The second act on the bill is Saurazal and Razal in a musical skit. The two people in this act are very clever and they received rounds of applause and surely deliver the goods.

"Vardaman" has a nice act also, making many changes of costume, singing many songs and "Vardaman" is a real entertainer from the word go. Don't fail to see "Vardaman."

The last act on the bill is a dramatic sketch well acted by Miss Buchanan and Mr. DeVah. These two people are very clever and have a nice sketch. The plot is much like that of the Girl Raffles. The bill all together is a fine one. A special matinee will be run on Saturday for children in connection with the regular candy matinee will be a toy matinee for the children. All children will be admitted at 5 cents. There will be two matinees, first at 2:15, second at 3:30 o'clock. All children present get a handsome present free. 5 cents. Amateurs to-night.

A musical comedy company for the Orpheum next week. The company will remain all week and make many changes in the programme. Special scenery and electrical effects with the big musical numbers and dances with clever people to make the show well worth while. The show is a good one and will surely do a capacity business. Watch the papers for a big surprise.

OPENING OF THE RUGG ADDITION BENEFITS CITY

New Houses Being Pushed to Completion and Thousands of Dollars Added to the Tax Duplicate.

Although the new Rugg addition in North Newark has not been formally opened to the public, the promoters have already sold half of the improved lots and three houses are now under course of construction with another to be started this fall.

The promoters had planned not to offer any of the lots for sale until all the improvements had been completed. Two months ago they announced that the street would be paved, sewer, water and gas mains laid, with connections from the mains to the lot lines, side walks constructed, trees planted and lawns seeded or sodded.

This work has been rapidly prosecuted and as a result the gas line and the sewer have been completed and the water mains will be installed within a week. Shade trees, properly protected have been set out. The sidewalks are all completed. About all that remains to be done is the sodding of the lots and the paving of the streets. This work will have to be delayed now until spring. There are about 62 lots in this addition, though all of them are not improved. Of the improved lots fully half have been sold. Houses now under course of construction are on lots owned by Charles Green, R. C. Lawrence, and J. F. Bonham. F. S. Mosteller has let the contract for a dwelling on his lot. F. S. Turner will start the construction work on a house on his lot.

The opening of this addition has already benefited the city by adding thousands of dollars to the tax duplicate and there is every indication that the promoters will dispose of most of the property by the middle of next summer.

Ruthie is a Little Typewriter Girl.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Use of the Typewriter

DADDY sat down, tapping his fingers amusedly on the arm of his chair. "You ought to see Ruthie these days," he said to Jack and Evelyn. "She's learning to write on the typewriter."

"Ruthie, you know, is just six years old. She goes to school now—real school, not kindergarten—and she thinks she is quite a young lady."

"When she trots off in the morning with her little rosy face wreathed in smiles you would think Ruthie was going to a party instead of to lessons. Its lovely when little boys and girls like to go to school, and no wonder the teacher lady smiles when cheerful little Ruthie comes hurrying in at the schoolroom door. So many little boys and girls, you know, smile and hurry only when they are going home. I hope, Jack, you and Evelyn are not that kind of children."

"Well, Ruthie's papa, as you know, is a writer man. He makes up pieces for the newspapers. Ruthie has an idea that when she grows up she will be a writer lady and make up pieces for the newspapers too."

"On his desk her father has a machine on which he taps out his newspaper pieces. It is a typewriter. Perhaps you have seen one. In front are a lot of little keys, each having one of the letters of the alphabet printed on it. When you strike the key marked a letter a is printed on the sheet of paper, which you slip into a roll on top of the machine. By spelling out the letters in a word and striking these letters on the keys you do your writing."

"It looked so easy that Ruthie thought she would begin to be a writer lady by printing a little piece on the typewriter."

"I'm going to write a piece about the mouse in the pantry. Papa can put it into the paper for me," she told her sister.

"So Ruthie climbed up on the tall chair. Her slippered toes stuck straight out in front of her, and the bow of her hair wasn't much higher than the top of the typewriter."

"Ruthie began: 'There is a mouse in our pantry. It won't go into the trap. The cat could catch it. We have no cat. We gave it away when we went to the country. Cats like mice. They eat them up.'"

"Ruthie couldn't spell all the big words, but her sister helped her."

"When it was done they looked at the sheet of paper. There was only a line of blurred letters. Ruthie had written one line over another, so that no one could ever read it."

"You see when a line is printed you have to turn the roll. Poor Ruthie, she was so disappointed, but perhaps some day when she is larger she may learn to use a typewriter machine, but her papa says she mustn't use his any more for she may break it."

Fifty Years Ago Today.
 Dec. 13.
 Battle of Fredericksburg, Va. At about 10 o'clock the Federal left wing under General Franklin attacked Jackson's Confederates along the Richmond road. Charge and countercharge followed, both sides losing heavily. As a diversion in favor of Jackson, Lee's batteries on the heights above the town opened fire on the Federal columns, which were packed in the streets. Then followed a series of desperate charges against Marye's Heights, where those guns were stationed. Near the base of the hill a stone wall, manned by riflemen, checked the assailants with awful slaughter. Night put an end to the futile attempts in which 70,000 Federals had fallen. The Confederate loss at this point did not exceed 1,200. Burnside's total casualties were 10,234. Lee's 4,724.

BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL MEETING DECEMBER 30TH

NOMINATING COMMITTEE SUGGEST NAMES FOR DIRECTORS IN 1913.
 State Official May Address Membership Meeting—Chair Presented to Colonel Wells by Directors

Messrs. William L. Prout, James K. Dewey, James R. Fitzgibbon, Louis F. Carl and Dr. F. E. Corkwell, who were appointed to place in nomination twenty-two men, (eleven to be elected directors of the Board of Trade), met Thursday night. Mr. W. H. Mazey, who was a member of the committee, telephoned from Cleveland making some recommendations, but saying he was not able to reach Newark in time to attend the meeting. The following nominations were made, the last eleven names being those of the present board of directors:

Messrs. W. E. Alward, Frank S. Neighbour, George B. Sprague, C. Harrington Davis, Harry Rosell, F. M. Black, John C. Kreig, T. Clarence Heiser, William H. Smith, I. M. Phillips, Charles W. Miller. The members of the present board were renominated as follows: C. H. Spencer, James F. Irwin, W. C. Wells, W. C. Metz, E. M. Baugher, Frank L. Begg, Fred C. Evans, E. C. Norris, Carl Norrell, Wm. M. Morgan, H. L. Monahan. Ballots will be printed for use at the annual meeting and space will be provided for additional nominations to be made from the floor.

Mr. Spencer said when shown the committee's report Friday morning that while he fully appreciated the compliment expressed by the nominating committee, he will not be able to accept the nomination and that the committee had been requested not to consider his name. Mr. Spencer said that he had been a member of the board of directors for several years, had been president of the Board of Trade for the past three years and that he has no desire to hold the place for life.

The Board of Trade directors were entertained at dinner Thursday night by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer at their home in Granville street and at the business session held during the evening plans were made for the annual membership meeting which will take place on Monday evening, December 30, instead of Thursday the 19th. The change was made after the directors learned that many of the stores would be open on the night of the 19th. The place of the meeting has not been decided but arrangements will be made to serve a 50 cent dinner to members.

The dinner will be followed by the annual reports of the president, secretary and treasurer, the election of eleven directors and it is probable that a state official will be present to talk for twenty minutes upon the work of the State Liability Board of Awards.

Secretary Wells is making an effort to collect the dues of a number of members who have not paid their 1912 fee. This money is needed to finish payment of the $2,500 pledged to the Advance Glass company, to meet current expenses and to turn over the Board of Trade affairs in good condition to the new board of directors. Those who have not paid their 1912 membership fee will kindly send Mr. Wells a check or be ready to pay him when he calls for the amount due.

At Thursday night's meeting of the board the directors presented Secretary Wells with a fine leather upholstered rocking chair.

Where Did the Flowers Come In?

By ELSIE B. MATTESON

Bob Garwood, aged thirty, had buried his father, then his mother. He and his sister had kept up the family home till the sister died and Bob found himself alone. He was at a loss what to do. He had been born in the house and had never lived anywhere else, the thought of leaving it and going to a hotel, a boarding house or bachelor apartments was repulsive to him. He determined to stay where he was.

He stood the loneliness of living in a house all by himself for several months, then gave it up. He preferred to take his meals elsewhere so that it seemed useless to keep a servant. The consequence was that everything grew dingy. He could not see through the window panes since they were covered with dirt; he considered it useless to make his bed since there was no one to see it except himself, and he didn't care. Dust and cobwebs began to appear. He wrote on a card, "This house to let. Inquire within 8 to 9 a. m., 5 to 6 p. m.," and tacked it on the front door.

Returning from business at 5 o'clock, he sat down in his accustomed seat by the window, opened his evening paper, sighed and listlessly read the news. About half past 5 there came a ring of the door bell. Garwood slowly rose from his chair and answered the summons. There stood a lady between twenty-five and thirty with a little girl. On her face was a melancholy look. The child might have been four years old and was the only one of the three who was not somber.

"I see this house is to let," said the lady. "May I look at it?" "Certainly! Come in."

Garwood showed her through the rooms, told her what rent he expected to get and that possession could be given at any time.

"I'm afraid," she said, "I'd better not take it. I should have to make the rent by letting rooms, and if I couldn't find roomers I should be in trouble. I'm not much of a business woman. I wasn't brought up to it. My husband died only a year after we were married and left me some money, but I didn't know how to take care of it, and it is all gone. I haven't $50 left."

"I might take a room with you myself," said Bob.

"Would you?" said the widow, with a faint glow of hope.

"If I were to keep one room at, say, $25 a month that would leave the rent out but $25."

The lady caught at this, and to help the matter out Garwood told her she could see what she could do in renting the other rooms, and he would not let the house till he heard from her. She departed quite comforted, and as soon as she was out of sight he went out and took down the notice.

Garwood waited a week for word from the widow, when he received a note from her stating that she had been able to find but one person who would agree to take a room with her, so she feared she would have to give up the plan of taking the house. Garwood called to see her and said he thought he would like to keep two adjoining rooms, for which he would pay $35 a month, leaving the rental but $15. The widow seemed encouraged and said that if he could give her more time she thought she could make arrangements that would warrant her taking the house. Garwood told her not to hurry.

Not hearing from her for some time, he called on her to learn what progress she was making. She apologized for keeping him waiting, explaining the delay by saying that two different persons whom she hoped to secure as roomers had been undecided. However, presuming from his having called that he was getting impatient she would not keep him waiting any longer, but give up the idea of taking his house. He assured her that he was not impatient and begged her to proceed in her efforts. The next day he mailed her a proposition to keep the rooms and a bath, for which he would pay $50 a month, and this would leave her no rent to pay.

To this the lady replied, acknowledging the liberality of his terms, but unless other roomers were in the house with them she would not like to face the opinion of the world by living alone in the same house with a man.

Garwood had proceeded as far as he could in the matter and deemed the lady right in the position she had taken. Indeed, he felt it incumbent upon him to call and apologize for having made a proposition that looked, to say the least, out of place. So he went to see the lady again and explained that he had supposed she would bring some relative or other person who would be glad of a home without paying room rent. The widow told him that she was alone in the world and very lonely. To this Garwood sympathetically replied that he was in the same position. He left assuring her that he would not give up the plan; he would think it over and see if he could not find some way out of the matter.

The only way out of the matter was to rent his house to the widow without rent and pay all the bills. This would not do at all without marriage, so he mailed her a proposal, which was accepted.

When her acceptance had been mailed the widow gathered up a number of withered flowers that had been coming from time to time during the negotiations and burned them.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS.

Great Skill Shown by the Coburg Glassblowers.

From Coburg, Germany, a little railway only twenty-five miles long leads into the heart of the Thuringian forest ranges, terminating at Lauscha, where Christmas ornaments are made. Nearly every house and hut is the home of a glassblower, and the smallest child that can use its hands understandingly has some part in the work.

The blowers make all their work from glass tubes of varied diameter and thickness, which are cut to convenient lengths by scratching them with a file and breaking them at the cleavage. A burner consisting of two, four or more flames issuing from tiny gas jets converges its fires upon a metal plate, which usually supports a piece of dry wood or charcoal whose slow but fierce combustion under the blue flame of the blowpipes rapidly melts the hardest glass. Driving the bellows which supplies air to his blowpipes with his feet, the operator turns out with deft swiftness balls, stars, pendants and larger ornaments of almost every conceivable shape and size.

His good wife is perhaps injecting a spray of gilding or silvering solution into a great basketful of the tiny balls, used to festoon windows and Christmas trees, or, perhaps, with greater skill is coloring with deft fingers the interior of a larger ornament.

The eldest boy may himself be a skilled operator and perhaps excels his father in creating miniature reindeer, with great spreading antlers, spirited horses, coursing hounds, fragile airships and balloons and, most wonderful of all, roses, carnations, tulips and other flowers, each of whose parts is made of colored glass of the proper color and fused in place with a delicacy of touch that far exceeds ordinary painting.

So light and fragile are these goods that they are packed in cotton and cartons divided into compartments and to a very great extent are shipped away from Lauscha by parcels express. So generally is this done between the middle of November and Christmas week that the postoffice force and a number of mail cars are furnished to meet the demand for parcels transportation.—National Magazine.

CHRISTMAS WREATHS.

Here's prettiness. The holly wreath leads. Southern laurel is beautiful. California pepper berries serve to adorn. Scotch beather is one of the pretty wreath materials. Red immortelles will at least never blush unseen. Lycopodium is often used with very good effect for wreaths. But, after all, holly is first favorite, with its lovely bright red berries. The gay bow of holly red satin ribbon is the usual finish, though it should not be used with berries of the California pepper tree.—Philadelphia Record.

CHRISTMAS POSTALS BURNED.

Dead Letter Office Destroyed 178,000 Last Year.

The dead letter office in Washington last year destroyed 178,000 picture postcards. The majority of them carried Christmas greetings and were held as unsalable because either the postage was not prepaid or the cards bore mica or tinsel ornaments and were mailed in unsealed envelopes. The transmission of cards with mica or tinsel decoration is forbidden by the postal regulations because in the past the eyes of employees were injured by handling them.

The Christmas Present.
A plague on him who sourly dubs
The custom overdue.
For every Christmas gift contains
All presents rolled in one.

It takes the faith in things unseen
Most wonderful to think,
In reindeer journeys over roofs
While stars look down to wink.

It takes the hope which ever springs
In high and lowly found,
The optimism and the trust
That make the world go round.

And, last, it calls for charity
The present to enhance,
But if from giver or givee
Depends on circumstance.
—McLandburgh Wilson in New York Sun.

Christmas Flowers.
Flowers always make a lovely gift and will keep fresh several days if the following precautions are taken:
Dip the ends of the stems in melted paraffin wax and carefully wrap the flowers with sheets of cotton. Line the box with waxed paper, being careful to leave plenty to fold over the flowers.

Place them in the box, cover over with the paper, wrap with several thicknesses of brown paper and they are ready to express.

Thought in Giving.
Do not spend more than you can afford on Christmas tokens. Nothing justifies it. Friends who know your circumstances will worry if they do not criticize you for false pride or love of display. If you put thought into your giving it will save you pennies.

Packing the Present.
Tissue paper, excelsior or finely cut paper will prove the best material to fill in all space, making it impossible for the Christmas gift to be broken.

SHUTTING OFF SERVICE OF ALL THE DELINQUENTS

A list of two hundred delinquent consumers from the books of the municipal waterworks department has been prepared and the employees of the department started Thursday to shut off the service at the homes of these consumers. This work will be continued as rapidly as possible until all the delinquents are deprived of the use of city water.

There are more than 4,000 service connections with the city watermain now and the number of delinquents is about 5 per cent.

This means that the city is collecting 95 per cent of the water rentals without difficulty. Most of the delinquents will come in and pay their bills after the service is discontinued so the actual loss to the city is reduced to a very small percentage.
